Wanted: summer tourists

Needed to balance out seasonal business swings;
Joe Sixpack need not apply

By WENDY HANSCOM

We need more summer tourists, but only the right kind of summer tourists—or such was the conclusion of a handful of local businesspeople and officials who met last week with the Maine Tourism Coalition.

Thanks to the success of Sunday River Ski Resort, they agreed, the Bethel area attracts plenty of winter visitors—but the summers are slow. Eight people, including innkeepers, representatives from Sunday River, Mt. Abram, the Maine Nordic Ski Council and Maine Publicity Bureau met last Friday at the Sudbury Inn. The meeting was part of the Maine Tourism Coalition's information gathering tour through the state.

The coalition and its research firm, Davidson-Peterson Associates of York, are conducting a research project to update information on how tourism impacts the state's economy

Hunters shoot straight, sleep out, are summonsed

Season winds down

With just a few days left in this year's rifle hunting season, local hunters are having good luck finding white tails in the woods. Monday's cumulative total were as follows at local tagging stations.

- Bear River Cabins in Newry: 30 deer and 11 bear.
- Brown's Mobil Station in Bethel: 51 deer and 8 bear.
- Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills: 33 deer.
- Trap Corner Store in West Paris: 81 deer and 2 bear.
- Mill's Market in Andover: 64 deer and 18 bear.

The rifle hunting season ends Saturday, Nov. 30.

West Paris hunter issued summons

Carl Polvinen, 41, of West Paris was served a summons last week for shooting a deer too close to private property and a school, according to Paul Fournier, a spokesman for the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

Fournier said the investigating game warden, Norman Lewis, served Polvinen the summons at his Pioneer Street home.

Polvinen was charged with discharging a firearm within 100 yards of a residential dwelling and having and/or discharging a firearm within 500 feet of a school.

Both charges are class B offenses and carry a maximum jail term of one year and a $500 fine. Fournier is scheduled for arraignment on Dec. 2 at South Paris District Court.

The charges stem from the Nov. 12 shooting of a 174-pound buck in the West Paris village. According to eyewitnesses, Polvinen and two out-of-state companions fired four shots at the eight-point buck while within 300 feet of the Agnes Gray Elementary School property. School was not in session that day.

Maryland hunter spends night in Upton woods

By ARLINE BERNIER

Tom Tax of College Park, Md., walked out of the Upton woods last Thursday morning after spending a balmy November night under the stars.

Maine Warden Service Sgt. Donald Gray of Newry said Smith got lost while deer hunting Wednesday. Tax was unable to find his way back to the Upton camp of his friend Doug Foret, also of Maryland, before nightfall, Gray said. Tax and Foret had planned a week of deer hunting.

Foret notified the Warden Service and a search was begun Wednesday night for Tax. Sgt. Gray and wardens

Legal fog keeps Gordons' home and used tire site in the dark

The Greenwood Board of Selectmen has found itself in the middle of a three-way tug of war among Peter and Susan Gordon, P.H. Chadbourne Co., Central Maine Power Company and GTE—over the murky question of utility easements along a discontinued town road.

At issue are the rights to run utilities—electric power and phone lines—along a one-half-mile stretch of the Rabbit Road between Vernon Street and the tire storage site operated by the Gordons, who for a year have also been living in a mobile home at the site.

The Rabbit Road was discontinued in 1954, but the Gordons claim that under Maine law the town retains a public easement along discontinued roads—and that the town selectmen have the authority to sign off on a utility right of way that would allow them to bring electrical and telephone services to their home.

But Robert Chadbourne, owner of

P.H. Chadbourne Co.—which owns the land surrounding Gordons' property as well as along both sides of the roadway—claims that under the law in effect at the time the road was discontinued, the town retains no utility easement.

And CMP will not set utility poles until the town makes certain guarantees—guarantees that the selectmen, in light of the cloudy legal

District looks for ways to cut

By WENDY HANSCOM

SAD #44 administrators and the school board's finance committee were scheduled to hold a meeting yesterday (Tuesday) to plan for expected state education aid cuts.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig told the finance committee at Monday night's regular board meeting that the latest proposal in Augusta amounted to $40 to $80 million worth of possible cuts in funding statewide.

Craig said after the meeting that the state has made no final decision on budget cuts. Even if $80 million were cut, no one knows now how the cuts would be distributed throughout the state, he said.

Yesterday's meeting was intended to compile a priority list of cuts SAD #44 might make once a final figure for the district is established. The priority list will be presented to the school board at its next meeting, Dec. 9. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Telstar High School library.

Boiler Room neighbors are still unhappy, but town officials won't act

By WENDY HANSCOM

Woodstock selectmen received a petition recently that was signed by 22 Bryant Pond village residents, which listed several complaints about the Boiler Room Restaurant, including problems with noise, speeding in the parking lot and disorderly conduct.

The petition calls for the town to form a committee to study any problems the restaurant may create for its neighbors. But Town Manager Vern Maxfield said that while the selectmen have acknowledged receiving the petition, they have no plans for further action.

"I've talked to both sides," Maxfield said, "and neither side has indicated to me that they want us to do anything beyond what we are doing—which isn't much. I don't think the town's involv-

THANKS FOR HELP WITH EXPLORATIONS EXHIBIT

To the Editor:

Last Saturday the first annual EXPLORATIONS Student Art Exhibit was held at the Lions Hall. This was a display of some 150 pieces of art, made by 45 students in grades one through 12 from our community. The attendance was fantastic and the excitement generated by viewing all this creative work was tangible. I want to thank Danna and Kate Nickerson, Roxanne and Stewart Twitchell, Becky Lyons, Vickie Rockcliffe, Seneca Brooke, Jason Saunders, Emily Ecker and Pat Donovan who helped me put this show up and take it down and all the parents who baked the delicious goodies. I also want to thank the Lions Club who made their hall available rent free for this event.

I'd like to again thank all the sponsors who supported the Scholarship Fund, which made it possible for 12 students to participate. It was a wonderful feeling to see all those children take such pride in their work and have that validated by the community.

My appreciation to may advisory board, Wendy Penley and Ron Kendall and everyone else who has supported this program. EXPLORATIONS will start a spring session in March.

EXPLORATIONS APPRECIATION

To the Editor:

I want to express my appreciation toward Arla Patch and her "Explorations" program for creative development. The opening exhibit for students' work done in the EXPLORATIONS class was held this past Sunday.

I was moved to see such powerful images and wonderful creativity from the students' artwork. Arla's choice of subject matter really brings out a great sense of self-expression among students.

The opening itself, as a means of gathering community members together to celebrate their children's creativity has a wonderful feel to it. I feel lucky to have Arla's energy and efforts be an integral part of the community.

I hope with support this kind of program can continue to exist and enrich the lives of Bethel citizens.

A GREAT BLOOD DRIVE

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, Nov. 19, the Bethel Community Blood Drive was held at Gould Academy—and was a tremendous and overwhelming success! On behalf of the American Red Cross, I'd like to publicly thank everyone who helped with the drive. We had over 40 students, faculty and friends at Gould that helped with publicity, phone-athoning and volunteering at the drive.

The Telstar National Honor Society and Dan Hart recruited several donors from Telstar. The BEARS helped the day of the drive with vital-sign checks. The Gould maintenance staff offered set-up help. Publicity was provided by the Bethel Citizen, Lewiston Sun and our local cable TV station.

One hundred-twenty people came Tuesday and we collected 111 pints of blood, which translates into saving 222-333 lives! It was the largest turnout and collection for the community blood drive since 1978! We had 45 first time donors, up through one gentleman who was making his 202nd donation!

Thank you to each and every person that came to donate blood. Your patience and spirit were most appreciated. Because we had 30 unexpected "walk-ins," things took longer than usual. The Red Cross headquarters apologizes for any inconvenience and assures us they'll send more staff next time in anticipation of the resounding spirit from Gould and the town of Bethel!

Thank you and bless you all!

SIGNS OF HYPOCRISY?

To the Editor:

"Food for thought: Does it seem odd to anyone else out there that recently a waiver for a sign that violates the Bethel sign ordinance was granted to a business whose local manager is a member of the planning board and fought hard for the town to accept the sign ordinance? Or does it seem odd that another planning board member who also worked on the sign ordinance is closely associated with a business that displays one of the largest signs in Western Maine?

I don't mean to imply that anything illegal was done in either case, but it certainly seems hypocritical.

I guess it must be easier to impose laws on others than abide by them ourselves. I hope as private citizens we remember these precedents before voting in more ordinances.

HANDS OFF WILDLIFE FUNDS

To the Editor:

All sportsmen of the State of Maine need to know the recommendation of Governor McKernan, which is supported by the appropriations committee, pertaining to a funding transfer from the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife to the Department of Conservation, Bureau of Forestry.

That recommendation calls for a transfer of $1.2 million of sportsman's dollars to help offset unpaid forestry fire fighting bills incurred last year and help fund the forest fire fighting function for the upcoming year.

The Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife is funded exclusively by money generated by sportsmen and federal dollars apportioned from excise tax collection on sporting related goods. Absolutely no General Funds money goes to support the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. State Statute clearly mandates that the amount apportioned to the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife shall be equal to or greater than the amount collected by sportsmen's fees, permits, fines, etc.

The sportsmen of the State of Maine, whether they be members of the Sportsmen's Alliance of Maine or not, need to speak up to their legislators and let them know that they disapprove of this transfer of sportsman's dollars.

If this transfer occurs it could economically destroy our Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. This time the transfer of money is for the Department of Conservation, what will it be the next time? This transfer sets a precedent that will destroy the only state government agency that is self-sufficient.

SCATI SKI-SKATERS

To the Editor:

I'm getting more concerned about the traffic on our country roads. First, you have the automobiles, then you have the pedestrians, hikers, joggers, and the bicyclists. Now along come the ski-skaters.

They don't allow registered ATVs or snow machines on the road except to cross from the trail to trail. I say let's put the skier back on the slopes and on the wooded trails where they belong. You don't allow skate boards on your town streets. Why should we allow ski-skaters on our country roads?

I've encountered ski-skaters on both sides of the road, on the hills and on the curves. I think we get enough traffic from the skiers as it is without them skiing down the road.

I wonder what will be next? Or will it take one of these ski-skaters to get seriously injured or killed before anything is done about them.

CLEARCUTTING BEATS OVERREGULATION

To the Editor:

In a letter to the editor last week, Frederick McMillin in "Bring on the Bombers" asked "What is clearcutting doing to the wildlife?" I'm glad he asked and feel that your readers might like to know the answer.

Harvesting of trees, including clearcutting has provided more benefits for wildlife than those available as a result of all the government and private wildlife refuges grouped together. To keep their food supply together, most species of animals require some form of vegetation management.

FROM THE Bethel Town Office

This time of year, I am approached as general assistance administrator, by various churches and civic agencies for guidance to those willing to donate and deliver baskets of holiday dinner, gifts, winter clothing, etc.

This year has been much like any other in that respect. But this year more than ever, people are concerned that some folks receive multiple donations, and some get none. There is a need for coordination of services, either through a Community Resource Committee made up of representatives of each agency or an individual agreed to and approved by all the donor groups.

I have made some initial contacts but will not be able to devote the time this deserves. Perhaps someone will take this project on as a New Year Resolution? Any help or ideas would be greatly appreciated.

When you next visit town office these days, be sure and check out the new bulletin board marked People Serving People. The board is dedicated to the display of letters of appreciation for the fine work of Bethel's employees and volunteers. I expect it will fill up quickly, since we are blessed with an abundance of wonderful folks working for us.

The Dec. 2 selectmen's meeting will include two public hearings; traffic ordinance amendments and the new shoreland zoning ordinance. The traffic ordinance discussion will center around the no-parking areas of Church Street and Mill Hill Extension.

The shoreland zoning ordinance is at this point still required by law to be in compliance by Dec. 31. As the current ordinance does not comply, the revised ordinance must be adopted or the state will enact its own version in Bethel.

Marcia Denison, Don Feeney and Walter Hatch are to be applauded for their efforts to make the revisions as palatable as possible.

W. Paris to vote on roads boss

At a special town meeting next week, West Paris residents will be asked—for a third time—whether the town selectmen should also serve as road commissioners.

Selectmen received a petition early this month signed by about 80 residents, calling for a town meeting to ask voters to rescind the town's earlier decision, in March, to allow selectmen to act as a road commissioner board.

At this year's annual town meeting, voters approved the change, which also called for selectmen to hire a road foreman to carry out their instructions.

In the past, the town had annually elected a road commissioner. The change was scheduled to be effective at town meeting in March 1992.

The March 1991 vote was the second time the town took up the issue. Selectmen also sponsored the same. Selectmen in 1990, according to selectman Wade Rainey, but the 1990 proposal was turned down.

When the matter was raised again this year, town officials would say little about why the voters were again being asked to make the change. When Selectman Howard Gurney was questioned about the reason for calling for a second vote, he told the crowd that he had no intention of discussing the issue.

Several members of the audience then said they'd heard enough discussion of the issue the first time around and moved that it go directly to a vote.

The U.S. Forest Service (USFS) whose area is the White Mountain National Forest (WMNF), has said, "Ninety percent of our wildlife species benefit sometime in their life span from tree growth in the 0 to 10 year age and young succession." One of the best wildlife habitats in the WMNF is a grass seeded, no longer used woods road. This is, in effect, a small clearcut.

Research biologists with the USFS based in Durham, N.H. have determined that over large forested areas in northern New England that are untouched and have total forest cover (no openings), one can expect to find 18 species of wildlife. Looking only at forest openings, such as orchards, fields and clearcuts, one can expect to find 48 species. With a combination of the two, one can expect to find 168 species of wildlife. The reason is simple. A mosaic provides necessary food from openings and the forest cover provides sufficient shelter.

Mr. McMillin also asks "What is being done about it (clearcutting)?" In 1985, during the WMNF planning period, our Association encouraged the USFS to reduce the size of clearcuts and to practice more selective harvesting. This new approach has been implemented. We also supported the recently passed Maine Forest Practices Act that controls harvesting and limits the size of clearcuts on private lands. We did this strictly for aesthetic reasons. Since the public reacts negatively to the unsightly appearance of clearcuts and these controls may help keep some of our forests open for harvesting. Unfortunately, many new regulations try to "overregulate," resulting in great hardships and financial loss to landowners. Some regulations border on a "taking." The Private Property Rights amendment that is currently being considered in the U.S. House of Representatives, if passed, will deal with such "takings" and "overregulations."

It needs to be understood that for the health of the forest and wildlife, clearcutting cannot be stopped altogether and that there are good reasons for doing it. For instance, some species of trees will simply blow down if not completely removed. Clearcuts often produce more tree growth and the highest quality trees. It is also a much safer and less expensive method of harvesting. With selective harvesting, damage can occur to those trees which are left in place. A properly perform-

Hunters

Gayland Brackett of Bethel and Norm Lewis of Greenwood hunted for Tax along with Upton residents and camp owners.

Meanwhile, Tax built a fire as darkness fell on Red Ridge in southwest Upton, Gray said, and settled in for the night.

Searchers fired shots in the air hoping Tax would hear and return the shots. Gray said Tax told him he heard shots over the strong winds that night. But Tax said he did not return the shots because he was not sure which direction they were coming from.

Gray added Tax knew he would be safe for the night and didn't want to walk any further. Tax encountered no problems overnight, Gray said, because of the warm temperatures and Tax was well-dressed, equipped and familiar with the woods.

Tax walked out of the woods Thursday morning to the Lane Hill Road camp of Dr. Lowell Barnes of Hiram, where he found Peter Smith also of Hiram, who had participated in the search for Tax the night before. Smith cooked Tax breakfast and offered him a fire to warm-up by and dry his clothes, Gray said. Smith then radioed the Warden Service from the camp at about 7:30 p.m. and notified them Tax was out of the woods.

Also participating in the Wednesday night search for Tax were Ron Jordan and Nelson Douglass, both of Upton, and Upton camp owner Perry Edwards of Oxford.

ed clearcut does not cause erosion as is so often claimed.

We understand why many people oppose clearcutting. Clearcuts are unsightly and today's environmental groups have saturated the public with the myth that the harvesting of trees is environmentally destructive.

Woods workers, like everybody else, have become more environmentally aware in recent years and are improving what they do. They are now regularly leaving some standing dead trees and avoiding areas that have critical habitat for the benefit of wildlife and despite cost to themselves.

People who have an interest in the forest environment should be encouraged to take the forest tours that are offered every year by our local paper companies, P.H. Chadbourne and some of our other small award winning tree farmers. Why get upset over something because you don't understand it? You might also want to ask the leaders of the environmental group you support how much they know about the environmental benefits of harvesting and the harmful effects of forest preservation on wildlife.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Dec. 5 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Prior to the meeting the annual "Christmas with the Masons" will be held beginning at 6:30 p.m. Christmas music, old-time refreshments and hot mulled cider served from the hearth of the winter kitchen will be among the features. The museum will be decorated once again as it might have been in Dr. Moses Mason's day.

During the program portion of the meeting slides of old photographs made during the past year will be shown, as well as those of Society activities during 1991. Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

From now until the end of 1991 the Society will be holding a 25-percent off sale on all purchases over $10 in the museum store except for the forthcoming "Bethel, Maine: An Illustrated History." This book is still being offered at a 25-percent prepublication discount until its appearance late in the month or early in December. Among the items being discounted are copies of Lapham's "History of Bethel," Eva Bean's "East Bethel Road," and Hubka's "Big House, Little House, Back House Barn."

Hours of operation of the Society's museum store are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and other days and times by appointment (824-2908). This 25-percent sale is in honor of the Society's 25th anniversary of operation and should be a good time to acquire various Society products.

A volunteer dinner was held recently to honor all those who helped with the museum and/or grounds and gardens during the summer. Those honored included Pamela Gotjen, Tineke Ovinga, Olive Anderson, Persis Post, Connie Thurston, Grace McGivern, Geraldine Howe, Arlene Lowell, Margaret Joy Tibbets, Gertrude Hutchins, Jim Anderson, Jarrod Crockett, Helen Morton, Margaret Davis, Rodney Howe, Barbara Honkala, Margaret Cousins, Marna McGinniss, Mildred Jackson, Mary Keniston, Polly Davis, Lois Burgess, Mary Valentine, Sudie Vachon, Mina McMillin, Barbara Herrick Brown, Lorrie Hoel, Millie Thomas, Rosalind Chapman, Judy Haskell and Floribel Haines. Much appreciation is extended to all of the above for their many contributions to the Society's success during 1991.

Key Bank—Casco switchover now set for late December

Officials of Key Bank of Maine said last week that they expect the proposed purchase of 12 Casco Northern Bank branches to take place by Dec. 20. The purchase, which was announced in June, includes the Casco Northern branches in Bethel and South Paris. However, the under the terms of the regulatory approval three of the branches, including the South Paris branch, will be put up for sale to other financial institutions.

The transfer of banking relationships will take place automatically upon completion of the sale, according to a statement from Key Bank.

Richard A. Molyneux, president, chairman and chief executive officer of Key Bank, announced the regulatory approval last week. The proposed transaction was approved in its entirety by the FDIC, the United States Justice Department and the Maine Bureau of Banking, he said. However, the Maine Attorney General's Office has indicated that it would not permit the transaction to occur unless Key Bank agreed to put up for sale three of the branches, which are located in South Paris, Houlton and Madawaska.

To avoid lengthy litigation, Key Bank said it is negotiating a consent decree with the Maine Attorney General, which, if consummated, would include a provision that the three branches in question, once purchased, be offered for sale to other qualified financial institutions for a period of 120 days. If no outside interest is generated within that period, the facilities would continue to operate as Key Bank of Maine branch offices. These three branches, along with the nine others located in Presque Isle (2), Caribou, Fort Kent, Limerick, Fryeburg, Buckfield, Rumford and Bethel, will strengthen Key Bank's branch network and help create an enhanced level of lending and customer service in those communities, Molyneux said.

"We are very pleased to be able to proceed with the Casco Northern purchase, and we look forward to serving the financial needs of our new customers. We are equally pleased to have received such a positive response from customers in the affected communities," Molyneux said.

In regard to the proposed sale of the three branches, he said, "We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause for customers of the South Paris, Houlton and Madawaska offices, and we will do everything in our power to expedite the bid process so that those affected will quickly know if they will remain customers of Key Bank."

He added, "Obviously, we would be sincerely disappointed if we did not have the opportunity to serve Casco Northern customers in those three communities for more than a four month period. Unfortunately, we are unable to determine at this time whether or not there are any qualified bidders."

Key Bank of Maine, with assets of over $2 billion, is headquartered in Augusta, and has 93 branch locations from Fort Kent to Ogunquit. Key Bank of Maine is a subsidiary of KeyCorp (NYSE:KEY), a multi-regional bank holding company headquartered in Albany, New York, with assets of over $23 billion.

ARTISTIC EXPLORATIONS—An estimated 300 or more people turned out Saturday for the first annual EXPLORATIONS Student Art Exhibition, held at the Lions' Hall in Bethel. They used the opportunity to enjoy, and in some cases purchase, 150 works by the 45 youngsters who took part in the program. Right, G.T. At 5:50 p.m. a Bethel resident reported a car/dog accident.

On Tuesday, Nov. 19 at 2 p.m. a Main Street store clerk reported receiving a bad check.

At 4:15 p.m. police assisted a Route 2 resident who was locked out of her house.

On Wednesday, Nov. 20 at 8:10 p.m. the SAD #44 transportation director turned in a report by one of his bus drivers of a car passing a stopped school bus.

At 9:15 a.m. the Bethel town clerk reported receiving a bad check.

At 12:40 p.m. a Locke Mills resident reported backing into a parked car on Main Street.

At 7:20 p.m. police ticketed a driver on Route 2 for going 67 mph in a 50 mph zone.

On Thursday, Nov. 21 at 12:45 p.m. police were asked to lead a Christmas parade on Dec. 7.

At 7:44 p.m. a Bethel resident reported receiving harassing phone calls.

On Friday, Nov. 22 at 8 a.m. police assisted a Bethel resident, who was locked out of his vehicle.

At 10:09 p.m. a Main Street store clerk reported a suspicious subject hanging around the store.

Boiler Room beef

ed in it. It's between the neighbors and the business. There's nothing we can do. (The Boiler Room) is not doing anything that goes against town regulations."

In fact, the town has no regulations pertaining to the live entertainment, which the restaurant features and neighbors say is causing problems. There is no noise ordinance and no permit required for live entertainment, Maxfield said.

Boiler Room part-owner Ron Savage said that the restaurant's liquor license is from the town, but the rest of his permits come from the state. He said the state fire marshal's office was in to inspect the restaurant for a dance permit recently and had no problems.

Ron's brother and partner, Rick Savage, said the state Alcoholic Beverages Bureau enforcement division also inspects regularly. "They've been here four times in the last six weeks," Rick Savage said, "and we haven't had any violations."

Complaints about the restaurant surfaced in September, when its neighbor Jean Blanchard came to a selectmen's meeting to voice her concerns.

The Savages later told selectmen that they were willing to hold a public hearing to discuss any traffic problems and the noise level, but the meeting was never held.

Blanchard, who circulated the petition, said she hoped the petition drive would spearhead some action by town officials. "What we hoped for was that those of us who signed the petition could form a committee, which would include people from the Boiler Room, to come up with some solutions," she said.

"But instead I'm told there's nothing the town can do. Right now I'm feeling defeated about the whole thing from lack of support. I put a lot of time into the petition and it wasn't received with a lot of enthusiasm. As a citizen and taxpayer I feel that I have some rights and need support from town officials."

Blanchard said she hasn't talked to the Boiler Room owners since her first complaint. At that time Ron Savage said he would take a number of measures to reduce the noise level from loud bands, she said. Both Savage and Blanchard now say that band noise from the restaurant has quieted down.

"The loud music was part of our original complaint," Blanchard said, "but it has become overshadowed by other complaints."

Some of the complaints listed in the petition include fighting and speeding in the restaurant's parking lot.

Ron Savage said there was one fight at the restaurant's parking lot in September that was broken up before police arrived.

And, he acknowledged, "Once in a while some guy might pull out and squeal a tire, but we're on Route 26 and some of that comes with living on Route 26."

he said he's tired of all the negative publicity about his restaurant. "What people are doing is calling town officials and the sheriff's office and exaggerating what's going on and making the restaurant look bad," he said.

"We've contacted the town office regularly, and we were told there was no problem. We want to solve any problems that come up."

For now town officials have no plans to act as mediator in the issue. Maxfield said he'd like to act as peacemaker, but he said he has no authority and he hoped the parties involved will work the problem out between themselves.

Stay Warm, Save Money.

A Monitor vented kerosene heater is the high-efficiency way to heat. It's quiet, safe and warm. You'll be comfortable and cut fuel bills.

Monitor delivers more heat for your fuel dollar than woodstoves or portables. A thermostat and "programmable" controls maintain a steady room temperature and will set the temperature back during times you choose for additional savings.

Tens of thousands of homeowners love their Monitors. Many heat whole homes. Monitor is also great in businesses and vacation homes. Monitor comes in 20,000 and 40,000 BTU models.

Make Monitor your dependable source of warmth.

Tourists wanted

and to develop market strategies for the future.

No specific strategies for increasing tourism in the Bethel area came out of the meeting, but the local people in attendance took the opportunity to explain to the researchers what kind of tourists they'd like to see and what the area has to offer.

Jim Thompson, executive director of the Maine Publicity Bureau, told the group: "Tourism amounts to 10 percent of the business in the state, and 50 to 60 percent of its jobs are full-time. It's second only to the woods products business and number one in the people involved."

But Rep. Al Barth said that even so, the tourism industry is still not a favorite of the general public. "The perception is that it's a bunch of low-paying, low priority jobs," he said, "but it's much more than that."

Despite that negative impression,

"We need to get people to realize they can come here for a destination vacation in the summer," Zinchuk said. "If we target summer tourists then we may need to help them—a lot of people don't want to work hard on their vacation. They may want someone to put their canoe in for them and then take it out two hours later."

Finding tourists who want to devote time to experiencing and discovering all there is to do in the area may not be easy, said Sunday River Ski Inn owner Steve Wight.

"If you're driving up Route 2 you won't find a neon sign pointing out Step Falls or picture perfect swimming pools on the Sunday River," Wight said. "And I don't think we want it that way. But, if you want to become a friend, we'll show you where everything is. We're not going to put up neon signs."

"The area is just not for the masses."

"We're Hallmark personified," replied Barth. "We have all of the things that other towns only have part of. We're an educational community; we have Gould Academy, SAD #44, NTL and Elderhostel. Plus, we have the village area in Bethel that hasn't been overrun like North Conway. When you come here you can do most anything, including just laying around and soaking up our history."

"We have the best historical society in the state," added Steve Wight. "It's larger than any other historical society in the county. In a town of around 2,500 the society has 900 members and we have major community events run by the society. We also want people who are environmentally aware or educable. It may be our job to teach them to be environmentally aware and to teach them the land ownership and use patterns in the area."

"We're not going to put up neon signs. The area is just not for the masses. We don't want to become Coney Island."

Steve Wight

the group agreed, there's no denying that tourism is important to the Bethel area.

"It's even more important now," Barth said. "The wood products industry is in terrible, horrible trouble. We just lost one of the lumber mills in town and a sawmill a few years ago. So tourism is really picking up the slack. If Sunday River suddenly became a volcano and blew up—we'd be all over, too."

With everyone in agreement that skiing at Sunday River and Mt. Abram pulled in enough winter visitors, talk moved on to promoting summer tourism in the area.

Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce Director Robin Zinchuk said that while winter tourists are here to experience one thing—skiing—summer tourists are a different breed.

We don't want to become Coney Island. We want people who want to spend time here. Winter tourism here is a push-button experience, but the same experience is not available in the summer."

Wendy McInerney of Sunday River Ski Resort agreed with Wight. "The winter people are here for that one particular reason," she said. "They want to ski and crash afterwards. The don't leave the mountain except to make their day trip to North Conway."

"We have to find the people who want a self-motivated summer experience," Zinchuk said.

Tourism researcher Karen Peterson of Davidson-Peterson said it would be a tough task to attract that kind of vacationer to the area. She asked the group to tell her what the area offers to vacationers.

"So you want well-educated people looking for an experience," Peterson said, "not just people passing through looking for a Motel 6."

"Yes," replied Wight, "but one of the main problems is explaining what we aren't, so people don't go away unhappy."

"I don't know quite how to tell you how to find these people you want," Peterson said, but added she would try.

Part of the tourism coalition's task is to plan strategies for promoting tourism, and Peterson said she would add the information from Friday's discussion to her overall research. She said she would try to find ways to help the town reach self-motivated vacationers and include those strategies in her final report.

situation, do not feel they can make. Susan Gordon has met with the selectmen on a number of occasions to present her case, and the board has twice agreed to sign easements.

"They've been pretty good about trying to help us out," she said. But in both cases CMP has come back and demanded additional assurances before it will go ahead and bring in the electricity.

First Selectman Ray Seames said CMP wanted the town to verify the original width and location of the road, and to grant CMP the right to clear brush along the lines.

But the selectmen, Seames said, didn't think they are in a position to make such assurances.

To complicate the matter further, Chadbourne forester Don Feeney sent a certified letter to the selectmen last week arguing that, based on research by the company's attorney, the town "does not have the right to grant the Gordons a right to install utility lines along the Rabbitt Road."

The company also demanded that the town instruct GTE—which has already run underground cables to the site—to cease any further installation procedures and to remove all cable presently installed.

An ongoing standoff

The Gordons have been operating the used tire storage site on the Rabbitt Road for over five years, and, according to Susan Gordon, last November the family moved into a mobile home on the site.

Santa Claus and friends will visit Andover

Santa Claus and his friends Rudolph and Frosty the Snowman will arrive in Andover at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Santa's sleigh is getting its annual tune-up, so Santa and friends have made a transportation deal with the Andover fire department and will arrive at the common on firetruck.

Santa's elves have been busy planning for Santa's visit and hope there will be a large crowd of little merry makers to greet the ambassadors from the North Pole.

The Gordons originally approached P.H. Chadbourne about a utility easement, but were turned down.

In a July 1991 letter to Robert Chadbourne, Susan Gordon repeated the request, citing her concern for the safety of her four sons, now ages 1 through 13.

But in reply, Chadbourne wrote that the couple had been told before they moved onto the site that the company was not willing to sign off on the easement.

"Although I certainly understand your concern for your children," Chadbourne wrote, "you have created the situation which now exists. You were aware of the risk of moving to that location prior to making that move."

Chadbourne went on to suggest that the Gordons install a generator or move the mobile home.

Susan Gordon also said, however, that when she initially contacted the company she was told that, while it would not sign the easement, it would raise no objection if the town signed one.

Responding to that claim, company official John Gray said Gordon had been told that the company would raise no objections if it turned out "that the town had the authority" to sign the easement—which the company now believes the town does not have.

As the matter stands now, Selectman Seames said, the town has referred the matter to its own attorney, and the selectmen plan to take no further action until the attorney has completed his review and made a recommendation.

DEP action still pending

In a related matter, an official for the state Department of Environmental Protection said this week that no decision has yet been reached on what, if any, action the DEP will take to enforce the terms of a consent agreement signed by Peter Gordon in June—in which he agreed to reduce the size of the largest tire pile at the site to 10,000 square feet (at its base) by Nov. 1.

An inspection on that date found the size of the pile to have grown to an estimated 25,000 square feet.

DEP enforcement specialist Terry McGovern, who conducted the inspection, said that the matter has been turned over to "management" for a decision.

A decision should be forthcoming "soon," he said, but he would elaborate no further.

Woodstock plans floating dock

The town of Woodstock received its planning board's approval last week to place a 24-by-4-foot wooden floating dock off the town's newly rebuilt public wharf.

The temporary dock can be in place only seven months of the year, according to the town's shoreland zoning ordinances.

Town Manager Vern Maxfield said the money for the dock will come from funds in the special public wharf account. Maxfield said he will buy the materials for the dock soon, but is unsure who will build it. He added that it should be in place next summer.

The planning board recommended that signs be posted on the dock stating that it was not to be used as a permanent boat tie-off site.

In other matters last week, the board also approved a change in Gordon Brown's Stowell Mill Subdivision plan. The change enlarged lot number two by taking away some of the land from lot number three.

Brown, who is also a planning board member, removed himself from the board before proposing his plan. He said the two lots will still meet the town's one-acre minimum lot size ordinance. Planning board members approved the modified subdivision plan.

Donald Chamberland of Lake View Drive received approval to construct a storage shed and porch. The planning board ruled that the porch must be 75 feet from the high water mark of Concord Pond.

The board also noted that substantial construction of the porch must be done before Jan. 1, 1992, when the town's minimum shoreland zoning setback increases to 100 feet.

GIVING, AND MORE GIVING, BOTH IN THE SPIRIT OF THE SEASON—120 donors turned out for this year's Bethel Community Blood Drive, held last Tuesday at Gould Academy. Above, community members and students wait their turn to give. One-hundred and eleven pints of blood were collected, enough to treat more than 300 people in need of blood products. To left, Telstar High School junior class STRETCH participants Betsy Johnson, right and Faith Walker donated Thanksgiving baskets to needy families. The girl's STRETCH group organized the food donations. Maryvonne Wheeler of Community Concepts will distribute the baskets to two families with children at the West Bethel Children's Center. Accepting the gifts along with Mrs. Wheeler were center students Kaylee Smith and Mia Stucchi.

Middle school completes first flag-football season

Over 30 Telstar Middle School students recently competed in the first season of intramural flag football.

Players showed quite a bit of enthusiasm and talent for the game, said coach Jeremy Volkernick.

Volkernick was hired as Middle School assistant track coach last spring and said he enjoyed working with the students and wanted to teach them a little bit about football.

Neither Telstar High School nor Middle School has played organized football since 1981. Volkernick volunteered to teach the middle schoolers the fundamentals of the game by playing intramural flag football.

The season revealed some local gridiron talent. Chuck Mason ran for 295 yards in five games and scored eight touchdowns—one of them after a 82-yard run. Also during the season, Parker Gray made a 72-yard touchdown run and Adam Newell ran 51 yards for a score.

The program ran for two weeks. Four teams were made up of eight players each. The teams played 24-minute halves on a ninety-yard field. Game rules followed along those of traditional football.

On the last day of the competition, play-off and championship games were held. This year's champ was Team 2. Championship players included: Captain Chuck Mason, Jason Berry, Andy Dennis, Jarrod Crockett, Tony Baker, Tim Hebert, Matt Ryerson and Kevin Marshall.

Coach Volkernick said he would like schools that don't offer football to form a flag football league. "All you need is a belt with two flags on it, a team shirt and the cost of a bus and busdriver," he said. "The sport can be played on any field, with pylons as goals."

But, Volkernick said, he knew school budgets were tight now, and SAD #44 Athletic Director Carroll Higgins agreed. "The program went well this year and the kids seemed to enjoy it," Higgins said. "But any new program that's going to cost money isn't going to get off the ground until the state gets its budget in order."

District cuts

building and grounds committee chairman Ray Harrington said his committee will continue planning for the Crescent Park School expansion.

Harrington said the district remains on the state's protected list. The state will consider funding 50 percent of the project, he said. Present plans for the CPS addition would triple the size of the school.

The rest of Monday's brief board meeting was largely devoted to personnel appointments.

Extra-curricular personnel appointed include Cindy Walker and Chris Olson, CPS basketball; John Emery, Andover Elementary School basketball; Jolene Shimamura, Woodstock Elementary School, basketball, and Susan Rosenberg, WES cheerleading.

Also appointed as substitute personnel were Elaine Daigle, Brant Remington and Gail Rein as teachers and Joan Bartlett in food service.

All directors were present at Monday night's meeting.

Free clothes for needy offered in Lewiston

The Spirit of Fire evangelistic ministries will sponsor a free clothes market on Saturday Dec. 14, in Lewiston.

About 10,000 items of clothing will be handed out at 113 Lisbon Street. No registration or need for disclosure of any type is necessary to receive clothing.

Elderly and handicapped individuals are asked to pick up clothing from 9 a.m. to 12. The general public is welcome from noon to 3 p.m.

All clothes look new and are individually packed in plastic sealed bags. Anyone wishing further information can call Rev. Jerry Begin at 777-7487.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Nate Smith came home from CMMC, Lewiston on Tuesday and is getting along well after having surgery.

Frances Grant called on Dot and Fred McKee in South Paris one day last week.

I was glad to go to Rumford Sunday with daughter-in-law, Carole and see the new location of her florist shop "Flowers Etc." on Waldo Street. Everything looked so nice and pretty and she is very busy, especially at this time of year. She gave me a real lavender rose which smelled just lovely as well as being beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. John Woodbury have a new chocolate lab dog which I expect is a joy to them even tho he will never really take the place of "Floyd."

The special town meeting held here Monday night was well attended and informative. It was voted to pay the auditors the amount charged in connection with the missing money from the Town Treasury. Stoneham will attempt to recover the misappropriated funds and the legal fees incurred.

Residents also voted to change the junk yard ordinance concerning boundary lines to read 50 feet instead of 500 feet.

The Stoneham-Albany-Waterford landfill in Albany will be closed Jan. 1, 1992 by the Dept. of Environmental Protection and the towns will be responsible for their rubbish removal following State rules. The town voted to take money from surplus towards the closing plans which have to be made. The town is responsible for 15 percent of the total cost.

Mrs. Alice Kilgore from Buckfield called on Gladys Kilgore on Wednesday. She used to work here in town and Gladys was one of her favorite persons. Also Bernice Hodgson and helper from Norway called on Gladys and had lunch with her one day last week.

Mrs. Margaret Durell from Norway Lake is staying with Helen Grover now.

Wednesday evening the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865, Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19 met at the home of Helen Grover with seven members and one guest. At this meeting first nomination of officers was held and General Orders #1 were read by the secretary. Articles to go to Pineland Hospital and Togus Hospital are to be left at the home of Helen Grover during the first and second week of December at which time they will be picked up and taken to the hospitals. It was moved and seconded to send donation to the restoration of the Civil War Monument in Mechanic Falls. It was voted to increase the amount of yearly dues and will be due during the month of January instead of the month that members joined. This increase was necessary to cover the cost of increased taxes from National and State. Plans were made to have the December meeting and supper Christmas party at the Chef's Table in Norway on Dec. 18 with exchange of gifts at that time. Supper is called for 6:30 p.m. Hope all members able will be there.

Dear Vita,

Once upon a time there was a band of pilgrims who dared to set out for a new world and a chance to make a new life. They had suffered religious persecution in their homeland and sought freedom from the powers that ruled them. Their hearts were full of anticipation; their heads were filled with fear; their skin was white. After days, they set foot on the foreign soil and gave thanks for their lives.

There were people already established on the new land. They taught the newcomers how to survive and how to thrive. Their hearts were full of giving; their skin was red. They shared their secrets with the immigrants, and after a harsh winter and a successful growing season, the two peoples sat down to feast and to give thanks for the bounty.

After a while, the newcomers got greedy. They pushed the red men further and further from their homes. They claimed the land for their own; they believed that the land was for the taking. The red men fought for their territory, but eventually, they were beaten into submission and forced to gather in smaller and smaller spaces.

Meanwhile, the white people thrived on their stolen property, and eventually developed colonies and vast plantations. Those farms required lots of hands, so the owners bought into a new idea: importing help from another continent. Human beings were snatched from their homes, bound in chains, and sold to the white men as slaves. These people were robbed of their rights, conscripted as workers, denied their freedom. Their hearts were full of fear; their heads were full of confusion; their skin was black.

Over the centuries, the settlements grew from colonies to states to one nation. Industries usurped the power of the plantations; the system of slavery was abolished. The new nation welcomed emigrants from many countries and diverse ethnicities, and the melting pot became a haven for the 'poor... tired... huddled masses yearning to breathe free.'

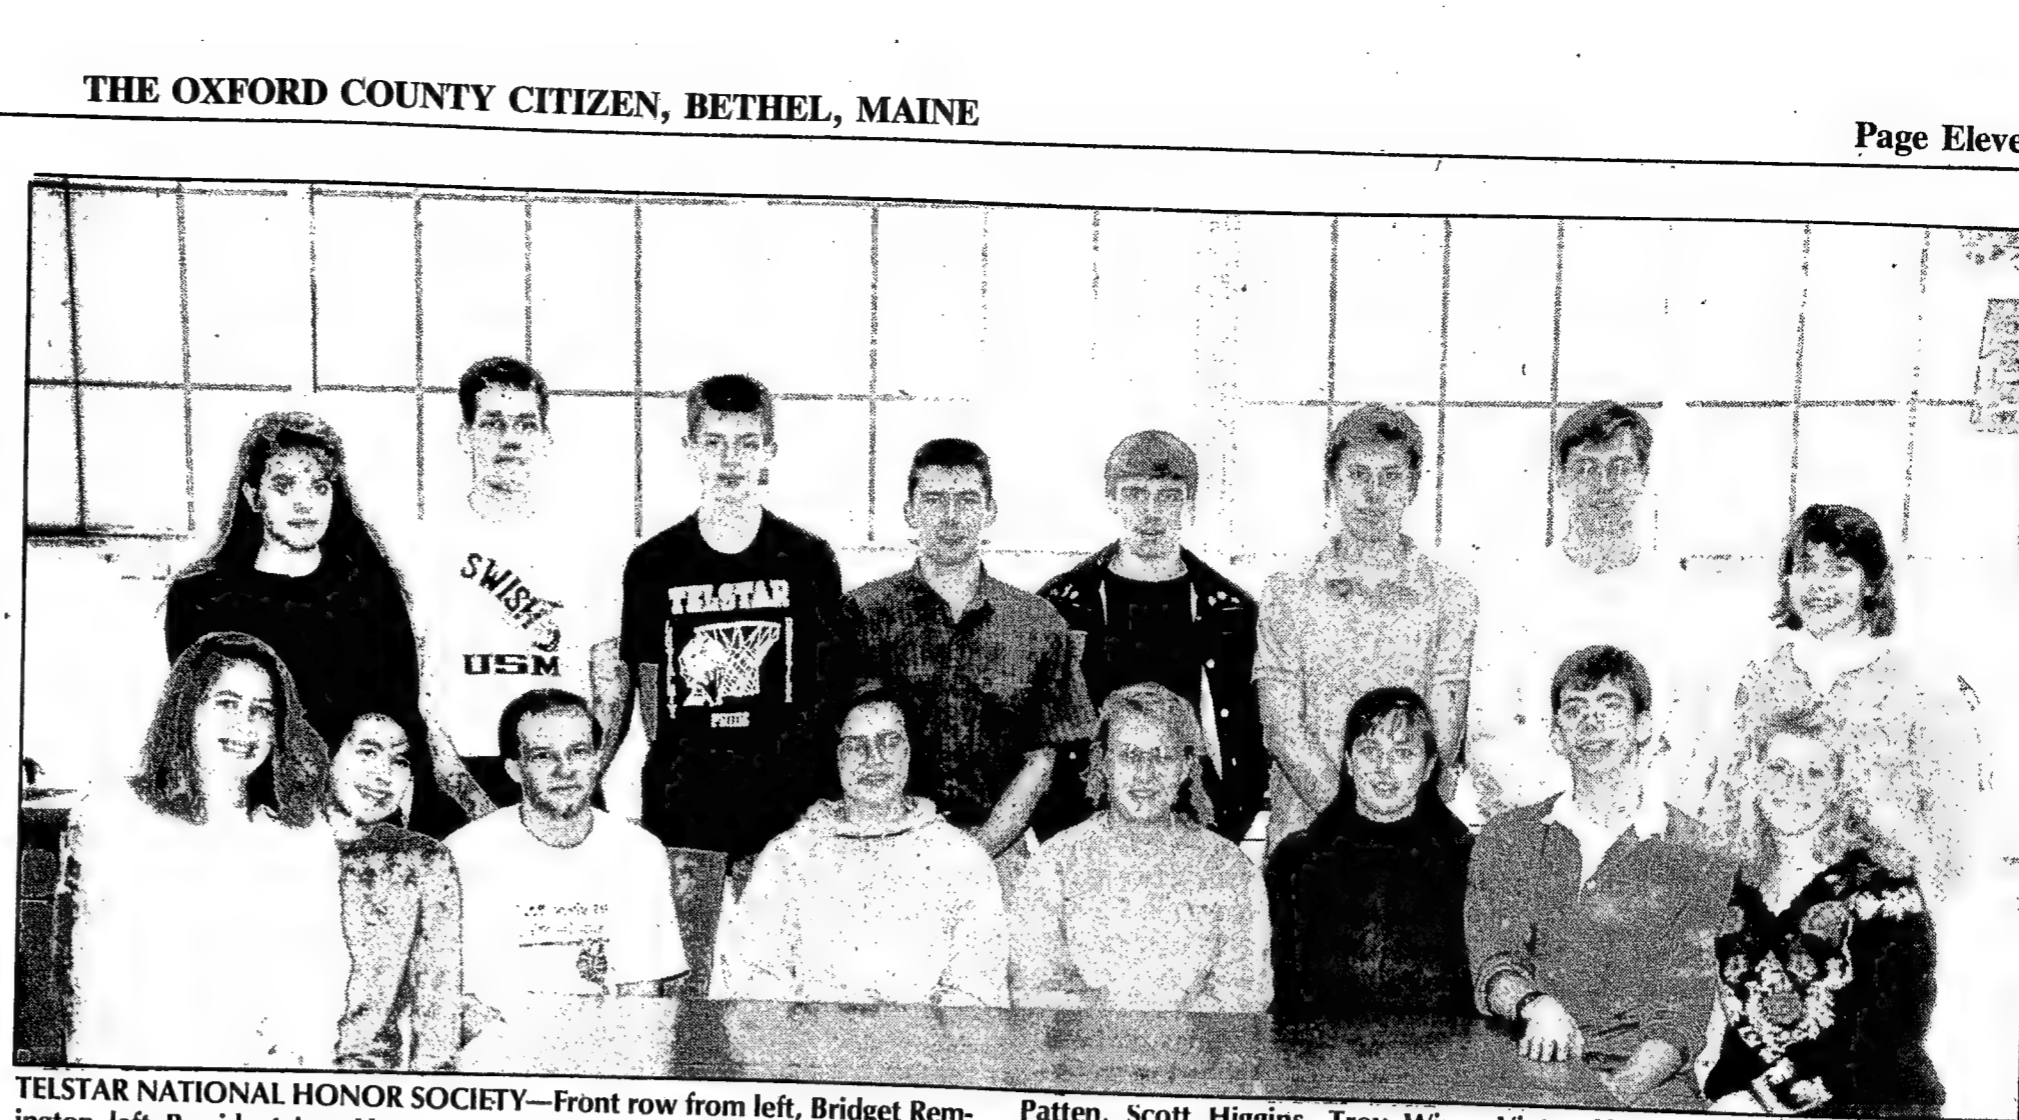

And everyone lived happily ever after... right?... Wrong!

Somewhere along the pilgrims' progress, we the people lost sight of our history, our compassion, our duty. We bought into the prejudicial notion that while all men are created equal, some are 'more equal' than others. While many of us continue to worship as our forefathers did, and others indulge in forgotten the simple assignment of each sect... to love others as we love ourselves.

Where in the story of mankind does it say that some of us are better than others? Where did we get the notion that it's all right to condemn another for his poverty, or his wealth, or the hook of his nose, or the hue of his skin? What happened to the ideals that we learned as children? Where in our march from the playground to the battlefield did we lose sight of the reality of the Golden Rule? Who shortened it to... 'Do unto others'...? Who says that life's a contest, and someone has to lose in order for me to win? Why can't we both win?

With a little work on our attitudes we can gain the peace that we say we want. We can let go of the fear that directs our actions and reactions, and we can take a new stand for what I call, 'Love and Let Live.' We get to let go of the anger and resentment that does no good. If in our dealings with others we see them as mirrors of ourselves, we can listen without judging, watch without condemning, act without expecting.

And in the spirit of giving, we get to perform for the right reasons. If we offer time or talent or assistance, we can do it for the sake of making a difference, not an impression. We can share ourselves with others and spend our energy on projects for the greater good, not our own. Instead of undermining we can strive for understanding.

As we prepare for the feast of 'Our Fathers,' let's give thanks for the power that we all have to really make a difference. That power is generated by our ability to love and it's manifested by our daring to step outside our comfort zone and to take the hand of our neighbor... whether that hand be red or black or white or yellow or brown. And as we hold that hand in friendship, let's forget where it lives or works or worships, and just experience the warmth of the connection to another soul who laughs and cries, feels pain and joy, just as we do. Let us give thanks for our lives, and our loves as we forgive our debts and our debtors. Let's remember that where there is love, there is no room for hate, and that in loving we can dispel fear and achieve peace. Let us dare to be different in order to make a difference. Happy Thanksgiving.

Love, C.B.

The First Congregational Church Youth Group will be holding the "Hanging of the Greens" ceremony on Sunday, Dec. 1 at 7 p.m. to celebrate the up-coming Christmas season.

Thirteen members of the East Andover Community Club met on Nov. 12 at the home of Charlotte Sennett as co-hostess. A luncheon was served followed by the annual meeting. The Club has been active for 50 years. An average of 13 of the 15 members have attended this past year. There are 28 in the community over 70 years of age. The secretary remembers each with cards during the year plus giving

Glaucoma Therapy is Lifelong

Glaucoma is an eye condition in which there is increased pressure within the eyeball. The pressure results from the fluids that bathe the eye. The normal circulation and drainage of these fluids is disrupted in some manner. Although glaucoma may progress without the person noticing any changes, early symptoms may include foggy or blurred vision, difficulty in adjusting to brightness and darkness, and slight pain in or around the eye, often only on one side. If left untreated, glaucoma can lead to partial or complete blindness.

Most glaucoma cannot be corrected surgically and requires lifelong therapy with a variety of prescription medicines. Commonly used glaucoma medicines include pilocarpine, timolol, epinephrine, echothiophate, and acetazolamide. Most medicines are placed directly into the eye as drops. Oral medicines may be prescribed for use along with the drops.

Glaucoma medicines work by one of two mechanisms. Some agents increase the rate of removal of fluid from within the eye. These medicines tend to cause constriction of the eye pupil, a side effect that can impair night vision. The other mechanism is through a reduction in the rate of production of eye fluid. Many persons must use both types of medicines.

The Historical Society hopes to foster community spirit and service. Let's each try to make a contribution to our area in some constructive way. The Society wishes everyone Happy Holidays at this season of the year, and we remind you to think of the history behind some of these special celebrations. Curator Larry Billings has been reading some material he has on the Shakers. Certainly they are widely respected for the communities they established and the things they made.

There are also groups like the Amish and others in various parts of the country noted for old-style ways. The December meeting of the Historical Society will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m., at 7 p.m. is the business session and exchange of gifts.

Stephens Memorial Hospital Christmas tree will be lighted on Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 5 p.m. All are invited to attend and enjoy coffee or hot chocolate following the service. One hundred and sixty lights have been purchased by area residents and Evelyn T. Bean wishes to extend thanks to all who purchased from her. This is the ninth year for the Christmas tree project.

Franklin Grange No. 124 met on Monday evening with 32 members present. Deputy Lewis Bisbee spoke about National Grange. The program was as follows: opening song "Prayer of Thanksgiving," poem "Thanksgiving Day" read by Alice Hoyt, Harry Boyer sang a couple of songs, reading "Weather Wisdom" by Russell Yates, Verna Swan and Johnny Howe recited their 70th year certificate and Russell Yates his 55th. Viva Whitman read an original poem "Give Our Thanks Again," a Chinese auction was held on a Christmas centerpiece and the money to go to Christmas for Tots, Richard Felt and Dot Canwell played some music. Closing song and closing thought by Viva Whitman. Next meeting is Dec. 16 for Christmas party. Starting in December only one meeting is scheduled a month.

About 127 people signed the guest book at an 85th birthday party for Verna Swan on Sunday afternoon. The party was given by Verna's family at the Woodstock town center.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Dec. 5 at the Ledgewood Memorial Home. The Ledgewood Auxiliary will serve the dinner. Ernestine Riley will be in charge of the program.

Stanley Andrews has been moved to the New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Room 322B, 13 Charles Street, Portland, Maine 04101.

Sunday afternoon but it has been a good day with sunshine for a change. Was glad to have it that way after all the rain we have had lately not to mention the cloudy weather with chances of rain or flurries. Gets monotonous having it day after day so this is a good change. Hope it lasts a few days at least.

Was in North Bridgton last Monday while Peggy went to Portland for a meeting with the card folks she works for. Not the best weather but she said she had no trouble going to or coming home.

Went to Portland on Wednesday for an appointment at the hospital. They thought I should have rented a bed as I had to be back there Thursday at 8 a.m. for another session.

Peggy entertained her daughter Loretta Merrill from West Bethel on Thursday to celebrate her birthday. Loretta had the day off so she came for lunch at Peggy's.

Can't think straight today I guess and don't know why but Peggy did her stores on Tuesday where she was in Portland on Monday.

Friday morning was grocery time for Russell and me and he went with me to help lug the bags as my shoulder was giving me such a bad time.

We were up bright and early on Saturday morning as Russell and Peggy were bound for Vermont and the National Grange to take degrees. A bus load left from Oxford. It was a long day for them. We were up at 4:45 a.m. and they didn't get home 'til about 9:30 p.m.

I had a dress in the making and needed a zipper so went to town in the afternoon and got the zippers I needed and a couple of other items also.

Got a call from my daughter in Auburn this morning and she had been able to get some sesame seeds I wanted so brought them up and she and the girls stayed to lunch. I am always glad to have them come.

I don't get company enough at all. After lunch and Nollie and the girls had gone home, we went to Bryant Pond for the celebration being held for Verna Swan.

There were many friends there to congratulate Verna and spend a few minutes with her and to see all the folks they don't get to see otherwise. Have a happy 85th Verna. We all love you for all you have been to us throughout the years.

Don't forget the dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Dec. 7 with the proceeds going for Christmas for Kids. What a lovely way to have a grand time and help out at the same time.

Starting in December, West Paris Grange will be sponsoring dances on the first and third Saturdays so write it down so you won't forget.

Another item not to forget is the variety show being put on Dec. 13 at Oxford Grange Hall on Route 26. Show starts at 7 p.m. so come for a good evening's entertainment for the whole family. Donations are $3.50 for adults and $2 for children under 12. These variety shows are good and lots of fun for all.

Door prizes are given and the cost is low so anyone can come. Good music, good fun with door prizes—what more could one ask for?

Jeremy Alley spent the weekend with his sister Delilah at the Lovejoy's home.

Mr. Lovejoy had a weeks vacation but has to go back to work again so his fun is over.

Friday, Mary and friend went to Rumford center and on the way stopped at D.J.'s Diner for lunch. She said she liked the owl picture there very much. Laura sells a few paintings for some folks.

Mary said her folks, the Macks, had a new furnace installed on the death of their old one. Too bad they wouldn't last forever.

Hope I have thought of everything I should have this week and so take care one and all and have a good week ahead.

Saturday, Nov. 16 Mary Smith and I went to West Sumner to the dance. Something happened to Mary's back, so Tuesday we went to Portland to Dr. Phillips and she can't get around so good. The Dr. says it may be a disc. She will probably miss a few dances and we all will miss her. Hope everything will be okay.

Sunday, Nov. 17 Mary and I went to Bryant Pond to an 85th birthday party for one of the nicest ladies I know, Verna Swan. It was hard for Mary. Monday, Nov. 18 Marietta Penley and I went to New Hampshire shopping. Of course we ate at Northlands Restaurant.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Donald Doughty.

I hear Miriam Inman is gaining at home after her surgery. Take it easy!

Tuesday, Nov. 19 I made a casserole and had lunch with my good friend Beryl Waisanen. We had a good feast. She took care of Tiovo for seven years.

I cut Verna Harta's hair. Maude is not well at all.

Wednesday, Nov. 20 Herman Card did a lot of odd jobs for me and Jason Thayer helped him. Then, we had dinner. Jason went to visit Grampa Coffin. Thanks a million, Herman.

Evelyn Whitman is settled in her new store at Trap Corner. Good luck! Tuesday, Dec. 3 West Paris Seniors will meet at Ledgewood for our Christmas dinner and party. Bring a gift marked for male or female and a can of something for the Food Pantry. Music after the dinner, then a meeting.

Robert Anderson, Sr. from Massachusetts has been at Joe Vatcher's hunting for a couple of days. Happy Thanksgiving to all.

What fickle weather we have. Last week could hardly get out of the 30s and this week has ranged from 40 to 70 degrees. No wonder there's a lot of sickness.

I spent last weekend in Boston with Ethel, Sarah, David and Jonathan. Sarah had an interview and spent an overnight at Wheelock College. The boys enjoyed the time at the Science Museum. Ethel and I spent some time there and attended Open House at Wheelock Saturday morning and toured the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum later. There are over 2,000 titles in her collection of rare books, Happy Thanksgiving!

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Irvine Smith has lost two house pet dogs. They are small dogs and not used to being out alone. Please contact her if you find them. Thanks.

The Historical society had several visitors at its last meeting. We hope this marks a trend of growth in the future.

The Historical Museum got some pictures of the White Mountains scenes among the post cards given recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and Olive Davis went to the town reception room to attend a party tendered Verna Swan, the occasion being her birthday. There was a full house wishing Verna a Happy Birthday. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews, Bridgton, had dinner with their aunt Olive Davis on Sunday.

November is half gone. Christmas is upon us. It's time to do your shopping.

Today was Retired Teachers day at Fryeburg. Little Brooks took Dot Ross, Louise Coffin and Colista Morgan. This is the last meeting for this year until March 1992.

I had a call from Esther Davis who is visiting relatives in Florida this month.

Thanksgiving is upon us. What are you doing neighbors? Everyone is wondering. Who will you spend your day with?

The hunters are having good luck hunting it seems. I wish they would stay farther away from peoples' homes. It is dangerous for those people who think they are safe in their own home, but are you?

The Greenwood Fire Department will meet Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. on Dec. 4 at the fire station.

Vera Cross tells me her friend John is feeling better. He suffered what appeared to be a slight stroke.

Louise Loring's daughter, Debbie, and her 12 year old daughter are moving to the Rodney Cross house this weekend. Welcome to the neighborhood Debbie. We hope you will enjoy living here.

Rumford Praise Assembly of God tendered what had to be the biggest surprise retirement party ever given to John Mills on Sunday evening. It was a surprise to us in that they combined the usual Thanksgiving party with a retirement party and a surprise to them because John was ill and didn't go. I did, however, and was founded to be presented with four bushel baskets—one a beautiful wicker clothes basket—filled with canned goods, paper products, pasta and vegetables, turkey, you name it, it was there, which will tide us over until the Social Security check starts in January, and also an envelope with a love gift of money. Owen and Debbie Brown and family were waiting for me when I arrived home, the car laden, and carried everything into the house for us. I have a back bedroom that has turned into a storehouse for the moment. It was certainly a wonderful surprise from some very caring people.

What weather! I have enjoyed the past few days and I am sure everyone else has too.

A pile of stool blanks fell on Susie Bean at work last week. She is at home now and will not be working for another week. She would not mind having visitors or cards.

Ruby Coolidge would like to thank everyone who helped with the supper for the Masons.

Ruby got a small doe recently and

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, GRANNY—Seven of Ethel Ward's grandchildren were among the 93 friends and family members who turned out to wish her a happy 88th birthday Saturday. The birthday celebration was held at the Capen Hill Farm in East Bethel, where Mrs. Ward was born and spent more than 60 years of her life. In addition to eight grandchildren, she has 18 great-

reports it is real good eating.

Bob Hastings is home from the hospital after a five day stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boswell from Fryeburg visited at the Hastings Homestead recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Jackson were in Kennebunkport last week to take a look at George Bush's home on Walker Point for storm damage. They couldn't see much from the road and the damage was on the ocean side of the place.

Melvin Olson had been hunting in the Allagash. At the same time Shirley Olson had been in Clearwater, Florida.

Rodney and Gerry Howe had supper with the Allan Howe family. They helped Diane and family celebrate Allan's birthday.

Stanley Howe and Dustin Howe went to the National Grange in Burlington, Vt. on the 16th. Dustin took the 7th degree. Alder River Grange now has three 7th degree members.

Myra Foster is doing well. She gets out when the weather is nice and goes shopping when possible.

November is riding her broomstick down dusky skies and has given us plenty of clouds and rain.

Until the hunting season is over I shall not walk the woods. So when I go out I follow the main highway. Even here there are things to notice. The course blades grasses bend low over pools and mossy hummocks.

I have discovered three robins' nests, mud caked, and near home, which I tried to locate this summer. Everywhere along the way there are old friends among the trees, special plants which I visit at different seasons.

There is one section of the road which I think of as a refrigerator when I travel it in winter. Here the wind blows cold. Big clouds white and billowy can quickly turn dark and threatening and speed before its chill-blast trailing their skirts over the far off mountain tops. I have seen clouds move up and hide the sun, then the very same hills which had seemed so kind, were suddenly lonely and formidable, and the wind suddenly chilled. Here it's coolest in summer, too.

On the rocks and ridges above the road there were masses of Christmas greens. These ferns retain their fronds all during winter and are glossy.

Beyond, a cloud, white and fluffy as a cloud, sailed across the sky trailing a gray shadow across the ridges. A chipmunk, not yet gone to his winter home, scurried across the leaf carpet of the woodland floor.

It's a beautiful country even in its bareness. The valley displayed its little rounded hills, green and friendly. The tall stately trees were graceful in their tracery of bare boughs. Jagged rocks stuck out through the thin skin of the earth.

November has a peculiar quality of light, especially in late afternoon. Somehow the hills across the valley seem close and distinct. Bare trees stand against the sky like delicate etchings. Stanley Foss Bartlett describes it perfectly in his poem "November Evenings."

"The eve is an etching of intricate tree tops/Of bird nests in shadows, a black and white picture/Of branches and highlights with stars that are quiet/And pane-sheltered fires./The eve is an etching thing/Of November heavens, Of housetops and chimneys/And silent smoke layers." "At day's end the sky was luminous...pale primrose and orange

AWARD WINNING ADULT EDUCATION TEACHER—Arthur "Mike" Murphy of Bethel received Teacher-of-the-Year honors at the recent Maine Adult Education Conference for his exemplary teaching in the SAD # Adult and Community Education program in Bethel. The award was presented at a luncheon ceremony attended by more than 250 adult educators, including Maine Education Commissioner Eve Bither. A group of twenty local residents, including veteran bird-carving students, their spouses and relatives of the award-recipient were in attendance: Ellsworth Hathaway, left, Jan Tood, Rolie Glines, Joyce Hathaway, Ken Bohr, Murphy, Norman Dock, Harry Kuzky and Jim Monahan. Murphy has taught in the SAD #44 program for five years, receiving rave reviews from his more than 250 students. Many of those who have learned the craft from Murphy have gone on to sell their products, and last spring a delegation from the SAD #44 program received 14 ribbons at a state carving show in Augusta. Murphy also volunteers in Tim O'Connor's Middle School classes and has organized members of his carving classes to provide support for the woods lab at Telstar—acquiring materials and repairing equipment.

near the horizon and lilac overhead with reflections in the pond. But the land was dark with the coming night and the trees stood out against the colors, black as charcoal. A beautiful ending.

 Saturday there was a beautiful rainbow over the valley, which reached from sky end to sky end. Some thought it was in the wrong place. At which end was the pot of gold? No one went to see.

John Bett's brother is visiting him for a few days.

Several members of my family came on Sunday to put away my boat, my swing and to do several other things. It didn't take long after they arrived. I am most grateful.

On Saturday I attended the Retired Teachers meeting in Fryeburg with Letitia Brooks, Louvie Coffin and Dorothy Ross.

Dorothy Betts was in Portsmouth on Tuesday night. She returned home on Wednesday morning.

On Monday afternoon our club met with me.

David, Sally, Mary and Ann Holt were at the farm on Sunday.

I have had several callers this week. My cactus plants have been in full bloom. I have these colors: pink, orange, yellow and white.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Aaron Bachelder and Tim Bragan from Mars Hill were recent guests of Aaron's parents, Ras, and Karlene Bachelder. Ras received word last week of the death of his brother Malcolm Bachelder of Stratton. He was a former resident of Newry.

The Newry Mothers' Club met Monday night, Nov. 18 at the Town Building with 11 members present.

Pres. Eleanor Davis opened the meeting, and a prayer was said by Gil Seeley. Sec. Peggy Wight read the notes of the last meeting. A motion was made by Debi Taylor to nominate Nancy Wight as replacement treasurer, as June Swan, former treasurer had passed away during last month. Betsy Clark seconded the motion and it was accepted by all the members. Sunshine lady Olive Anderson reported on sending cards to the ill and shut-ins. She also mentioned the Thanksgiving baskets to be made and delivered to the elderly. Bea Lowell, Sylvia Wight and Olive will make them, money was approved.

The Christmas party will be at the Town Building on Monday, Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. with a potluck supper and revealing of the 1991 secret pals' names and also picking the next names for 1992.

The Christmas tree lighting ceremony will be on Sunday, Dec. 8 at 5 p.m. at the Town Building also with a mini potluck supper. Everyone is invited.

It was voted to give $25 to the "What Not Shop" in Rumford. The mystery prize was won by Sylvia Wight. Happy Birthday to Peg Wight and Mary Morin. Debi Taylor spoke on the Community Conference on Friday, Nov. 15 concerning youth involvement.

Meeting was adjourned and bingo game played during the refreshment time, served by Betsy and Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowery of Gorham, N.H. were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell. The Lowerys were former residents of the Branch Road. We all say Hello to them.

Congratulations to Loretta Berry who has been hired as a part-time assistant Town Clerk in Newry.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell, Olive Anderson, Sylvia Wight and Eleanor Davis were bowling at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford. Betsy of the "lefties" was high on the triples and also high on the singles with one string of 121 and another of 105. Eleanor of the "righties" was high on the triples. Rena Powers was a guest.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post #68 met at their Legion Hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills, Thursday, Nov. 21 for their bi-monthly meeting.

The first order of business was a final review of Pearl Harbor Day observances to be held at the Union Church in Locke Mills, Saturday, Dec. 7 beginning at 1:35 p.m., exactly 50 years to the very minute of the horrible spectacle of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. The observances will open with the ringing of the church bell to remind everyone of the occasion. The public is invited to attend these ordinances.

Members of the Post who will be participating are invited to report at the Legion Hall to get organized for our participation at 1 p.m.

The Post Commander reported on his attendance to the County Council meeting. Veterans are being made aware that there is a move under way for the State Department of Human Services to take over the management of the Veteran's Cemetery in Augusta. All veterans are strongly urged to contact their legislative representatives about this matter immediately.

Words of appreciation are to the Auxiliary for the food prepared for the Veterans' Day on the past Nov. 11.

The Post would also like to express its deep appreciation to Danny Davis for the wonderful job of bulldozing the grounds around the Legion Hall. He did an excellent job.

It was voted that the Legion provide Thanksgiving baskets for the needy in the surrounding area, including veterans and families.

The next meeting will be held at the Legion Hall, Thursday, Dec. 5 at 6 p.m. beginning with a potluck supper with members of the Auxiliary. Members and friends are invited to join us. Come and bring a donation of food with you for all to enjoy.

CROSS COUNTRY QUILTERS

On Dec. 3, the Cross Country Quilters will be meeting at 10 a.m. for a potluck Christmas luncheon at Sue Crane's home, 10 Broad St.

Everyone planning to attend should bring four things: 1) a glue stick, 2) a red, white and green 12-inch quilt square with pattern of your choice, 3) the finished pair of Christmas stockings begun at last meeting, and 4) a small hot dish or salad to share.

Ruth Feeney and Mary Learned are assisting Sue Crane as hostesses at the luncheon meeting. Beverages, breads, and dessert will be provided. Before the potluck Mabel Kennett will demonstrate how to make a small tree ornament appropriate for quilters.

A Christmas block exchange is also planned. The person holding the lucky number receives all the squares brought by the other members and such a head start on a quilt or wall hanging is a coveted prize.

An added attraction will be a show of the Christmas stocking begun at the Nov. 19 meeting. Mabel Kennett and Sally Ramage will provide patterns and guidance to create from quilters' own fabrics some colorful quilted stockings decorated with boy and girl figures dressed for the holiday. It will be a festive occasion and it is hoped all members can come.

RUMFORD CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO HOLD CHRISTMAS FAIR

The Ladies Aid of the Rumford Point Church will sponsor a Christmas Fair on Saturday, Nov. 30 at the church. The event will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will include a soup and sandwich lunch which will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A special feature of this year's fair will be pine-cone wreaths offered for sale. Green fir wreaths will also be available that day, or may be ordered for a later date. Raffle tickets for Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus and Elf will be on sale. The raffle will be drawn on Dec. 11.

Barbara Gross and Bess Etti will be serving the soup and sandwich lunch. Helen Goodine, Katherine Penney and Joan Everett will be selling fancy work items. Evelyn Enman will preside at the jewelry table. Marcia Stearns and Louise Morton are in charge of the food and candy table. Mittens, other knit items and Christmas crafts will also be on sale.

CALVARY CONGREGATIONAL KICKS OFF YOUTH NIGHTS

The Calvary Congregational Church of South Andover kicked off its new program "Youth Nite" Nov. 17 with a pizza party/game night with 24 youths participating.

"Youth Nite" is held every Sunday evening from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the church for grades three through teens. Youth leader Tina Farrington has grades three and four; Youth leader Barb Bailey has grades five and up.

Teen leader Scott Farrington invites all interested teens to join the club, currently in its third season. Any interested youth is invited to come and share these night of activities, games and fun.

G'WOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Greenwood Historical Society's monthly meeting will be held Dec. 4 at the meeting house. This meeting will be a potluck supper followed by the annual Christmas auction. Come and join the fun.

By COLISTA MORGAN

November is riding her broomstick down dusky skies and has given us plenty of clouds and rain.

Until the hunting season is over I shall not walk the woods. So when I go out I follow the main highway. Even here there are things to notice. The course blades of grass bend low over pools and mossy hummocks.

I have discovered three robins' nests, mud caked, and near home, which I tried to locate this summer.

Everywhere along the way there are old friends among the trees, special plants which I visit at different seasons.

There is one section of the road which I think of as a refrigerator when I travel it in winter. Here the wind blows cold. Big clouds white and billowy can quickly turn dark and threatening and speed before its chill-blast trailing their skirts over the far off mountain tops. I have seen clouds move up and hide the sun, then the very same hills which had seemed so kind, were suddenly lonely and formidable, and the wind suddenly chill. Here it's coolest in summer, too.

On the rocks and ridges above the road there were masses of Christmas greens. These ferns retain their fronds all during winter and are glossy.

Beyond, a cloud, white and fluffy as a child, sailed across the sky trailing a gray shadow across the ridges. A chipmunk, not yet gone to his winter home, scurried across the leaf carpet of the woodland floor.

It's a beautiful country even in its bareness. The valley displayed its little rounded hills, green and friendly. The tall stately trees were graceful in their tracery of bare boughs. Jagged rocks stuck out through the thin skin of the earth.

November has a peculiar quality of light, especially in late afternoon. Somewhere the hills across the valley seem close and distinct. Bare trees stand against the sky like detailed etchings. Stanley Foss Bartlett describes it in his poem "November Evenings."

"The eve is an etching of intricate tree tops/Of bird nests in branches, a black and white picture/Of shadows and highlights with stars that are quiet/And pane-sheltered fires/The eve is an etching thing/Of November heavens, Of housetops and chimneys/And silent smoke layers." At day's end the sky was luminous...pale primrose and orange near the horizon and lilac overhead with reflections in the pond. But the land was dark with the coming night and the trees stood out against the colors, black as charcoal. A beautiful ending.

AWARD WINNING ADULT EDUCATION TEACHER—Arthur "Mike" Murphy of Bethel received Teacher-of-the-Year honors at the recent Maine Adult Education Conference for his exemplary teaching in the SAD # Adult and Community Education program in Bethel. The award was presented at a luncheon ceremony attended by more than 250 adult educators, including Maine Education Commissioner Eve Bither. A group of twenty local residents, including veteran bird-carving students, their spouses and relatives of the award recipient were in attendance: Ellsworth Hathaway, left, Jan Tood, Rolfe Glines, Joyce Hathaway, Ken Bohr, Murphy, Norman Dock, Harry Kuzk and Jim Monahan. Murphy has taught in the SAD #44 program for five years, receiving rave reviews from his more than 250 students. Many of those who have learned the craft from Murphy have gone on to sell their products, and last spring a delegation from the SAD #44 program received 14 ribbons at a state carving show in Augusta. Murphy also volunteers in Tim O'Connor's Middle School classes and has organized members of his carving classes to provide support for the woods lab at Telstar—acquiring materials and repairing equipment.

Saturday there was a beautiful rainbow over the valley, which reached from skies end to skies end. Some thought it was in the wrong place. At which end was the pot of gold? No one went to see.

John Bett's brother is visiting him for a few days.

Several members of my family came on Sunday to put away my boat, my swing and to do several other things. It didn't take long after they arrived. I am most grateful.

On Saturday I attended the Retired Teachers meeting in Fryeburg with Lettie Brooks, Louvie Coffin and Dorothy Ross.

Dorothy Betts was in Portsmouth on Tuesday night. She returned home on Wednesday morning.

On Monday afternoon our club met with me.

David, Sally, Mary and Ann Holt were at the farm on Sunday.

I have had several callers this week. My cactus plants have been in full bloom. I have these colors: pink, orange, yellow and white.

By GIL SEELY

Aaron Bachelder and Tim Bragan from Mars Hill were recent guests of Aaron's parents, Ras, and Karlene Bachelder. Ras received word last week of the death of his brother ill and shut-ins. She also mentioned the Thanksgiving baskets to be made and delivered to the elderly. Bea Lowell, Sylvia Wight and Olive will make them, money was approved.

The Christmas party will be at the Town Building on Monday, Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. with a potluck supper and revealing of the 1991 secret pals' names and also picking the next names for 1992.

The Christmas tree lighting ceremony will be on Sunday, Dec. 8 at 5 p.m. at the Town Building also with a mini potluck supper. Everyone is invited.

It was voted to give $25 to the "What Not Shop" in Rumford. The mystery prize was won by Sylvia Wight. Happy Birthday to Peg Wight and Mary Morin. Debi Taylor spoke on the Community Conference on Friday, Nov. 15 concerning youth involvement.

Meeting was adjourned and bingo game played during the refreshment time, served by Betsy and Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowery of Gorham, N.H. were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell. The Lowerys were former residents of the Branch Road. We all say Hello to them.

Congratulations to Loretta Berry who has been hired as a part-time assistant Town Clerk in Newry.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seely, Bea Lowell, Olive Anderson, Sylvia Wight and Eleanor Davis were bowling at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford. Betsy of the "lefties" was high on the triples and also high on the singles with one string of 121 and another of 106. Eleanor of the "righties" was high on the triples. Rena Powers was a guest.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post #68 met at their Legion Hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills, Thursday, Nov. 21 for their bi-monthly meeting.

The first order of business was a final review of Pearl Harbor Day observances to be held at the Union Church in Locke Mills, Saturday, Dec. 7 beginning at 1:55 p.m., exactly 50 years to the very minute of the horrible spectacle of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. The observances will open with the ringing of the church bell to remind everyone of the occasion. The public is invited to attend these ordinances.

Members of the Post who will be participating are invited to report at the Legion Hall to get organized for our participation at 1 p.m.

The Post Commander reported on his attendance to the County Council meeting. Veterans are being made aware that there is a move under way for the State Department of Human Services to take over the management of the Veteran's Cemetery in Augusta. All veterans are strongly urged to contact their legislative representatives about this matter immediately.

Words of appreciation are to the Auxiliary for the food prepared for the Veterans' Day on the past Nov. 11.

The Post would also like to express its deep appreciation to Danny Davis for the wonderful job of bulldozing the grounds around the Legion Hall. He did an excellent job.

It was voted that the Legion provide Thanksgiving baskets for the needy in the surrounding area, including veterans and families.

The next meeting will be held at the Legion Hall, Thursday, Dec. 5 at 6 p.m. beginning with a potluck supper with members of the Auxiliary. Members and friends are invited to join us. Come and bring a donation of food with you for all to enjoy.

CROSS COUNTRY QUILTERS

On Dec. 3, the Cross Country Quilters will be meeting at 10 a.m. for a potluck Christmas luncheon at Sue Crane's home, 10 Broad St.

Everyone planning to attend should bring four things: 1) a glue stick, 2) a red, white and green 12-inch quilt square with pattern of your choice, 3) the finished pair of Christmas stockings begun at last meeting, and 4) a small hot dish or salad to share.

Ruth Feeney and Mary Learned are assisting Sue Crane as hostesses at the luncheon meeting. Beverages, breads, and dessert will be provided. Before the potluck Mabel Kennett will demonstrate how to make a small tree ornament appropriate for quilters.

A Christmas block exchange is also planned. The person holding the lucky number receives all the squares brought by the other members and such a head start on a quilt or wall hanging is a coveted prize.

An added attraction will be a show of the Christmas stockings begun at the Nov. 19 meeting. Mabel Kennett and Sally Ramage will provide patterns and guidance to create from members' own fabrics some colorful quilted stockings decorated with boy and girl figures dressed for the holiday. It will be a festive occasion and it is hoped all members can come.

RUMFORD POINT CHURCH TO HOLD CHRISTMAS FAIR

The Ladies Aid of the Rumford Point Church will sponsor a Christmas Fair on Saturday, Nov. 30 at the church. The event will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will include a soup and sandwich lunch which will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A special feature of this year's fair will be pine-cone wreaths offered for sale. Green fir wreaths will also be available that day, or may be ordered for a later date. Raffle tickets for Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus and Elf will be on sale. The raffle will be drawn on Dec. 11.

Barbara Gross and Bess Etti will be serving the soup and sandwich lunch. Helen Goodine, Katherine Penney and Joan Everett will be selling fancy work items. Evelyn Enman will preside at the jewelry table. Marcia Stearns and Louise Morton are in charge of the food and candy table. Mittens, other knit items and Christmas crafts will also be on sale.

CALVARY CONGREGATIONAL KICKS OFF YOUTH NIGHTS

The Calvary Congregational Church of South Andover kicked off its new program "Youth Nite" Nov. 17 with a pizza party/game night with 24 youths participating.

"Youth Nite" is held every Sunday evening from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the church for grades three through teens. Youth leader Tina Farrington has grades three and four; Youth leader Barb Bailey has grades five and up.

Teen leader Scott Farrington invites all interested teens to join the club, currently in its third season. Any interested youth is invited to come and share these night of activities, games and fun.

G'WOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Greenwood Historical Society's monthly meeting will be held Dec. 4 at the meeting house. This meeting will be a potluck supper followed by the annual Christmas auction. Come and join the fun.

Rotary Club notes

The Rotary Club was pleased to welcome Madeleine Henley and Maryvonne Wheeler as speakers at the Tuesday, Nov. 19, breakfast meeting held at the Sudbury Inn. They shared the presentation and spoke on the Fuel Assistance Program in the Bethel area.

Madeleine advised the club members of the changes in the general assistance laws which make it difficult for the local government to provide aid. The towns do see a lot of folks in need and most often have to make referrals to other agencies who are better equipped to help.

Maryvonne Wheeler works for Community Concepts in the Community Action Program. She is constantly working with folks who are in need of assistance due to lack of work or some other hardship.

Both Madeleine and Maryvonne would like to see more coordination of assistance and resources in order to make the delivery of all of our services to the community more effective. Their presentations and comments will be used to aid in the further discussions of Rotary's mission in the Bethel area.

President David Murphy advised that the Christmas for Children campaign is underway and he sees this as a very challenging year to meet our goal of raising funds to buy presents for families in need. He urged all club members to pull together and really meet this challenge.

Rick Whitney had Rotary information and informed members that we are celebrating the 75th anniversary of Rotary Foundation which is the endowment fund for scholarships, Rotary Peace projects and the Polio Plus campaign.

President Dave read a thank you note from the newly formed Bridgton Rotary Club, who we helped in their formative stages.

Guests this morning were Ron Theriault and Mark Brice, Rumbold; Ira Pitcher and Malcolm Vertigan, Lewiston/Auburn; James Martamucci, Rumbold; Dave Paine and Fred Collins, Oxford Hills; Stan Harmon, B. Idgton; and Rick Flint, Sunday R.v.r.

Christmas for Children

The Bethel Rotary Club's Christmas for Children campaign is now underway and entering its fourth year. In the past three years, over $13,000 has been raised and spent on area children in an effort to make their Christmas a brighter day.

This year's goal is $6,000. At the end of the first week of this program nearly $1,000 has been raised. Area residents and organizations are urged to consider contributing to this most worthwhile cause. Contributions can be mailed to David W. Murphy, HCR 61, Box 170, Bethel, Me. 04217. Your contribution this year is more important than ever. Due to the economy, we expect a significant number of requests. We are hoping that area residents will help us reach this $6,000 goal.

If you have any questions regarding this important event, please do not hesitate to contact David W. Murphy, 824-2041.

Christmas Caravan signs on

David W. Murphy, Chairman of the Bethel Rotary Club's Christmas for Children campaign, has announced that individuals in the area previously involved in the Christmas Caravan will now be directly involved with the Christmas for Children drive.

Nina Wheeler, Betsy Paquette, Leslie Cooley, Maryvonne Wheeler and Cindy Mills have long been providing assistance for many Bethel families through the Christmas Caravan Program.

This program had been sponsored by the Portland Press Herald. Due to budgetary constraints, that particular program has been eliminated. However, all facets of that program will continue to operate in conjunction with the Bethel Rotary Club's Christmas for Children campaign.

Area families requesting assistance through the Christmas for Children campaign this year should send their requests to David W. Murphy, HCR 61, Box 170, Bethel, Me. 04217.

This letter should include names, sex and ages of all children. New toys will be provided for all children up to the age of 12. However, children's names and ages above that should also be included, since clothing and hats, mittens and quilts will also be available this year.

Deadline for requests for assistance will be Dec. 8 this year. Individuals wishing to make a donation to the Christmas for Children campaign are urged to do so, and should also send their donations to the address listed above. Individuals with questions regarding the program may contact Dave Murphy at 824-2041.

ELEANOR GORDON GUILD

After a summer vacation the Eleanor Gordon Guild had their first meeting at the Blake cottage at Songo. Lyndell Carter, Evelyn Reed, and Betty Blake were the hostesses. Twelve members and one guest enjoyed a bountiful potluck supper. Georgia Brooks and Betty Blake showed pictures of their recent two-week tour of Alaska.

The October meeting was held at the Methodist Church, with Florine Bowden and Muriel Butters as hostesses. The vice-president Barbara Mahler led the meeting in the absence of President Peg Wheeler, who was in the hospital. Cream puff desserts were served by the hostesses. A silent auction was enjoyed.

The November meeting was held at FINISHING TOUCHES—Woodstock selectman and road foreman Percy Monk last week painted a yellow line around the perimeter of the town's newly rebuilt public wharf. Monk said the National Guard did some of the foundation work for the project, but the town crew completed much of the work on the wharf. Last week Monk's crew surfaced the wharf with 16 tons of pavement. The town also received its planning board's approval last week to place a 24-by-4 foot floating dock off the wharf. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom) the home of Debbie Adams. Pop corn balls were made for the church fall sale. Workers for two days at the candy table were planned. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Barbara Mahler. It will be a potluck supper and have a Christmas tree. Members are to bring their "red stocking" pennies and a gift for their Secret Sister revealing their name.

OXFORD POMONA MEETS

Oxford Pomona Grange met at Norway Grange for its November meeting.

An open meeting was held for the Thanksgiving program, presented by lecturer Bertha Benoit.

The address of welcome was given by Ethel Lacourse, Norway Grange with response by Richard Felt, Pomona Master. All joined in singing "Come Ye Thankful People, Come."

The lecturer read a Pilgrim story.

The Bedard trio entertained with several numbers.

Ceres, Pomona, and Flora held symbols of the harvest as the lecturer explained their meaning.

Lewis Woodworth sang, accompanied by Dot Canwell at the piano. Ella Jones won the attendance drawing.

Mystery package winners were

Rosa Herrick, Bertha Kilgore, Gertrude Farrar and Lyman Herrick. The program concluded with all singing "We Gather Together."

After the program the meeting was opened in the fifth degree for business.

Reports of Subordinate Granges found 42 in attendance.

Committee reports were given by the C.W.A., youth, deaf activities, legislative and scholarship.

A Green Sash Day is scheduled for Dec. 7 at the Paris Grange. Noon lunch will be served. The meeting is at 1:30 p.m. Pomona officers are to fill the stations.

A report on the 118th annual State Grange session was given by delegates Peggy Blake and Russell Yates.

A variety show is scheduled for Dec. 13 at Oxford Grange hall to benefit the Pomona treasury.

West Paris hosted the variety show on Nov. 8.

The next Pomona meeting is Dec. 3 at the Oxford Grange, Welchville at 7:30 p.m. This is our Christmas program with gift exchange and potluck supper. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

Nearly 40 people attended the general membership meeting which was held Tuesday, Nov. 19, at the L.L. Bean Mountain Center at Outward Bound. Many thanks to Landon Fale for hosting us there and to Janet Willies, Outward Bound and Thirza Herrick, Hometown Bakery, for providing refreshments.

The discussion revolved around the chamber's current projects and then the 1992 Tentative Program of Work.

We would very much like to have the members' input into the chamber program, so if you were not able to be at the meeting and have some suggestions, please feel free to call the office or contact any board member.

We were pleased to have Don Bennett present. Don is a current chamber member and is also the former Chamber Executive Director who directed the organization for many years in the late 1970s and early 1980s. He had some very good reflective things to say about the current chamber operations and enthusiasm amongst the membership. The meeting was great.

Many thanks to Don Katlin who refurbished and painted the chamber's sign, which is hanging to the side of our entrance door at the Maine Street Place.

Also many thanks to Ken Irons of Greenwood, an artist, who designed the new front cover of our Winter Retail Guide.

The chamber invites you to come in to the office to look at the new coupon booklets. If you have not seen one and you do any dining out or shopping in the Bethel area, you should consider buying one. The value in it is extraordinary.

Mahoosuc Arts Notes

Cajun music fans from throughout northern New England are preparing for an evening of Cajun culture in Bethel on Saturday, Nov. 30, sponsored by the Mahoosuc Arts Council. The festivities begin at 6 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School with Cajun dance lessons presented by Franco New England dancers: La Plume de Ma Tante. Dance lessons will cost $1 per person. The Basin Brothers from Acadiana, Louisiana, will begin playing in the Helen Berry Auditorium at 8 p.m. This performance is designed as a concert; however, the audience will be encouraged to dance and participate. Advance tickets for the concert may be purchased in Bethel at Prim's Pharmacy, at the Riverview Motel, or by calling the Mahoosuc Arts Council office at 824-3575—$6 for adults and $3 for seniors and students under 18 years. Tickets purchased at the door the evening of the performance will cost $8 for adults and $4 for seniors and students.

All members of the audience will be invited to join the Basin Brothers for a reception at the Sudbury Inn in Bethel following the performance. The next Mahoosuc concert is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 8 at 4 p.m., when conductor Jonathan Smith will lead a Messiah Sing at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel. Rehearsal for the Messiah will begin at 1 p.m.

MANAGEMENT CLUB DINNER

Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Sudbury Inn in Bethel on Dec. 2. Social hour will be from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., with dinner from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Rayna Leibowitz (MEMA). The topic will be new reporting requirements for handling of hazardous materials.

Western Maine Management Club is a group of people representing Western Maine businesses who meet on a regular basis to discuss issues and ideas fueling today's businesses. The club is always looking for new individual and business members.

Reservations for the Dec. 2 meeting are being taken by Judy Johnson of Bridgton Knitting Mills at 647-3333. Please phone no later than Wednesday, Nov. 27 to reserve.

SUSAN CRANDALL TAKES PART IN BATES POLITICAL PROGRAM

Susan R. Crandall of Bethel, a senior at Gould Academy, recently participated in the U.S. Senate in Action program at Bates College. Some 62 high school students from around Maine took part in the program, which enabled them to take on the roles of actual U.S. senators. Crandall portrayed Sen. Kent Conrad of North Dakota.

Sponsored by the Edmund S. Muskie Archives at Bates, Senate in Action enables highly qualified and motivated students to gain an understanding of the legislative process. They study parliamentary procedure, conduct party caucuses and committee hearings, and convene full sessions of the Senate. Crandall is the daughter of Richard and Carole Crandall of Bethel.

PAYMENT SITUATION
Every year at about this time, the banks reclassify used cars as being a year older—which means higher interest rates, shorter terms and bigger payments. So if you are concerned with getting the lowest payment possible, it would be wise to act before the reclassification.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Darkness can have a soothing, comforting effect on one that is tired and waiting for a good night's sleep. Many children are afraid of or uncomfortable in darkness, and older people as well. Even others when disturbed by pain or sickness or just plain disturbing thoughts will lie sleepless and anxiously await the dawn.

In the Bible we find the word light used quite frequently, most generally in a symbolic way.

When God created the earth, He said, "Let there be light." This was the first light that He gave to the world. The second would come later. This was the symbolic use of the word which is the point of this thought.

What then is the point of the symbolic use of "light"? Generally I think we could say understanding—acceptance of the Word of God and also thinking of the use of the word "word." Symbolically, the acceptance of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and Savior of Man.

In Psalm 119 verse 130 it says "The entrance of Thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple."

In St. John 1:1-4 John writes "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made. In Him was life, and the life was the Light of Men."

In Isaiah chapter 9 the prophet writes of his encouragement to the hopeless—Isaiah 9:2. "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

These words speak of how with the coming of Christ, there will come an acceptable sacrifice for man's sins. To those that will accept Him, to those that will see the light.

We that live in the Northern Hemisphere should find a good example of light and darkness and the coming of Christ. Late fall here means the coming of short and dark days, many times much darkness. But, as December draws to a close the days slowly start to lengthen. Our Christmas and our celebrated birth of Christ occurs at just about the time of this change. Thus my thought that with the birth of Christ comes the time of more light.

This of course, is in regarding it as a parable, but in our own lives when we accept Christ, we will find more light in our lives. A promise to remember from

Christ's own Word as given us by John in chapter 8 verse 12 is "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."
